A BEAUTIFUL ART EXHIBIT

A Fine Testimonial to Greensboro Artists

MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF CHINA

Everybody Enthusiastic Over the Many Pretty Things—Continued Tomorrow by Special Request

Those who have seen the art exhibit at the McAdoo building are so enthusiastic over it that by specal request it will be kept open tomorrow also. This will give those who have not seen the collection an opportunity to do so. The exhibition will be kept open until 5 p. m., when exhibitors can get their articles.

The china exhibit is especially fine and is a tribute to the ability of local artists that it is very flattering. Few people who have not seen the exhibit would imagine that there is in Greensboro and vicinity so many people capable of doing work of the grade here displayed.

While the china exhibit is especially fine, perhaps the display of needle and tapestry work would be of most interest to ladies. The masculine mind can only marvel in dumb incomprehension and wonder how it was all done.

The exhibits are all arranged with exceptional taste and the general effect is most pleasing. Some of the amateur work deserves individual mention, but artists are proverbially modest and we refrain.

Refreshments will be served tonight as usual, but tomorrow that part of the show will be closed.

FIRST LIBERTY BELL.

North Carolina Originated It and it is in Alamance County, N. C.

The battle of the Regulators, as it is often called, fought May 16, 1771 in Alamance county, was the first organized resistance to British tyranny.

An interesting article appeared in The Maury (Tenn.) Democrat of November 4th, 1897, contributed by Mr. Daniel Albright Long. I quote partially:

"It was not until 1879 that any steps were taken to mark the spot of the Regulators' battle. The movement was set on foot by Daniel Albright Long. He made the celebration speech, July 4th, 1879. Col. T. M. Holt, Gov. D. G. Fowle, Col. J. S. Carr and others were present and addressed the crowd. A number of interesting relics were exhibited on the occasion.

"The Regulators had no drum; they used a large hand bell, both to warn their comrades of the approach of the British and to call their own forces together."

This bell is now in the possession of D. A. Albright at his homestead on Haw River, Alamance county, N. C.

The big Liberty Bell of Philadelphia proclaimed liberty and freedom and on the 4th July, 1776. The large "hand bell" of Alamance proclaimed that the battle for liberty had begun and and the blood of patriots was soon to be shed in that sacred cause.

We hope Mr. Long will contribute the old hand bell to our museum at Guilford Battle Ground where all eyes can see it on the next 4th of July, 1898. It ought to have been there when the bell of 1776 visited that sacred spot, January 31st, 1896. This was the most distinguished visitor the battle field ever had. S.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Some of the Business Transacted in Court Today.

The trial of criminal causes proceeds in the Superior court. Judge Adams is not slow in despatching business and the clerk says the criminal cases will be wound up tomorrow. Those tried today are of minor importance, and up to the noon recess they are as follows:

State vs. Victoria Reed, retailing, guilty; 6 months in jail.

State vs. Thomas Kirkman, a. and b., guilty; 30 days on county roads.

State vs. Lewis Ogburn, abandonment; not guilty.

State vs. Eliza Ogburn, c. c. w., guilty; 3 months in jail.

State vs. Peyton McIver, c. c. w., guilty; judgment suspended.

State vs. Peyton McIver, misdemeanor, guilty; 3 months on county roads.

State vs. Geo. Johns, attempt at larceny, guilty; sentence not passed.

State vs. Robert Houston, larceny, guilty; 4 months on county roads.

State vs. Charles Robinson and Lorena Lloyd, injury to buildings, guilty; judgment suspended.

Col. John D. Cameron.

The Charlotte Observer says of Col. John D. Cameron whose death was published in the Telegram yesterday:

"A man far above the average of men passed off the stage of action yesterday when Col. John D. Cameron, died. He was one of the most accomplished scholars in the State. He wrote with rare facility, and no man on the State press in the past quarter of a century, perhaps, has expressed himself more felicitously or in more exquisite English. He was, to employ a phrase much abused, a gentleman and a scholar. As a conversationalist he was delightful. He knew intimately the best men of his time and was engaging in reminiscence. Personally he was one of the most amiable, sweetest of spirits, but if there was one trait in his character which was more conspicuous than all the others, it was his devotion to North Carolina and his concern for her welfare. In every quality he was a true man. God, rest him!

After Brer Rabbit.

Brer Rabbit is doomed and there is no hope for him. Today is the day set apart for his execution. He has been cutting his sassy antics, as Uncle Remus would say, among other beasts long enough, and this morning a party composed of Chief of Police Rees and a posse, among whom were Messrs. Jordan, Wilson, McKinny, Gilmer and others went up to Friendship, armed with shot guns to take him dead or alive.

No question about his capture. As we go to press the posse is close on him, and following up our custom of printing the news, we will give an account of the capture and execution tomorrow.

IS THE REPORT A FAKE?

St. John Says it Most Assuredly is Such.

CAPE FEAR REPORTED SOLD.

The Announcement Causes a Rise in Its Stock Said The Associate Press Dispatches This Morning.

The following announcement appeared in the morning papers. Neither verification nor denial of it could be had here:

"It is announced that the control of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley has passed over to the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company, and that the property will hereafter be operated under a perpetual lease by the "Seaboard Air Line" system. The basis of the deal is said to be a guarantee to the bondholders, and an agreement to operate the line for 75 per cent. of the gross receipts, the balance to go to the stockholders. The announcement has caused a rise of 20 points in the price of the stocks of the Cape Fear Yadkin Valley railway."

The Cape Fear authorities here having refused to discuss the matter the following message was sent to vice-president St. John, of the Seaboard Air Line railway at Portsmouth Virginia:

"Was the report published in the morning papers to the effect that your road has secured control of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railway true?"

The following reply was received:

Portsmouth, Va. Dec. 10.
Evening Telegram,
Greensboro, N. C.

I have no such information and the report could not be true as the road has not yet been ordered sold by the court. E. St. John.

Mr. St. John, who should know what he is talking about, may be presumed to have the straight of it.

Mrs. McKinley Lingers.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Canton, Dec. 10—There is no change noticeable in the condition of Mother McKinley this morning. The President remained at her bedside until early this morning.

Died at His Post.

Owosso, Mch., Dec. 9.—Fire broke out in the Owosso Caskets works about 3 o'clock yesterday, destroying one life and $30,000 worth of property. Frank Wilcox, night watchman, aged 27, and the support of an aged mother, living in Detroit, was suffocated to death while trying to quell the fire with a hand extinguisher.

The fire is supposed to have been the result of spontaneous combustion. The property destroyed was insured for $16,000. The building will be rebuilt.

Concert Monday Night.

The Frances Hughes concert company will appear at the Academy of Music on next Monday night. Prices of admission, reserved seats, 50 cents; general admission, 35 cents; children, 25 cents.

This company are already favorably known here, having gave a concert recently at the State Normal and Industrial college. This is the kind of entertainment that should be liberally patronized. This kind of performance is elevating. Let everyone attend who possibly can. Give these excellent singers and musicians a full house.

A Heart and a Kiss.

The ladies of the bazaar which is to be are making great preparations. The keeper of the summer booth announces that a heart and a kiss will go there for the small sum of five cents. The requisite quantity of the one might be found but the wonder is where the other will come from.

Restlessness prevails in Havana and troops have been concentrated in readiness to prevent a demonstration.

Dr. C. Morfit, the distinguished chemist, died in London, Eng., yesterday.

A BEAUTIFUL WEDDING.

Fayetteville Enjoys a Charming Social Function.

Correspondence Telegram.

Fayetteville, Dec. 9.—The beautiful St. John's Episcopal church was packed to its utmost seating and standing capacity, both floor and galleries, last evening by such a concourse of people as has been exceeded in the past ten years only by the vast gathering which paid tribute about the bier of the lamented Rev. Dr. J. C. Hurke—the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Lawrence Williamson, a young man of high character and business standing, and Miss Laura Meade Kyle, a charming, accomplished society belle, eldest danghter of Capt. W. E. Kyle, an official of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railway.

The impressive ceremony was gracefully performed by Rev. I. W. Hughes, and the bridal party, in elegant toilettes, took their places about the chancel as follows:

Mr E A Holt and Miss Mamie Haigh; Mr W E Holt and Miss Fannie Kyle; Mr Jas N Williamson, Jr, and Miss Emily Kenan, of Duplin; Dr H W Lilly and Miss Boaz, of Brooklyon, N Y; Mr J Harvey White and Miss Rebecca Haigh; Mr John Underwood and Miss Marion Mallett; Mr H W Pemberton and Miss Belle Sutton, Mr Jas Kyle and Miss Cora Holt, of Burlington; Miss Nan Kyle, Maid of Honor, and Mr E Williamson; the bride—gowned in white satin, veil cooped with lilies of the valley, her bouquet, bride roses and lilies—led to the hymenial altar by her father.

After the marriage a delightful reception was held at Capt. Kyle's residence on Hay street, whence, at 10 o'clock, the wedded pair departed amid showers of rice and good wishes to the northbound train for the honeymoon tour.

Among the guests from abroad the reporter noted Capt and Mrs J W Fry and Mr Mebane, of Greensboro; Messrs. Finley Williamson, W L Banks, B G Williamson and Dr John Williamson, Mr S H Webb, Col J H Holt, Mr Robt Holt—all from Burlington and Graham.

He was connected with a number of the largest business interests of the country. He was president of the Market National bank, Fleischman Yacht Company, Fleischman Distillery Company, and several other concerns. He was a member of the State Senate and for years was a prominent figure in Ohio politics.

Facts Worth Studying.

If the Southern Stock-Mutual pays no larger dividends than the 20 per cent. now paid, and the business increases during the next seven years in the same ratio it has increased during the last three years, the actual saving for the ten years to policy-holders in North and South Carolina will be $194,822.00, and to the policy-holders in Greensboro alone, $26,237.00. Besides this the Company's assets (reinsurance reserve and surplus) represented by still larger figures will be kept at home and invested in the state. What better investment can the public make than by upholding an institution like this?

Is there an ordinance in Greensboro forbidding the blowing of locomotive whistles in the corporate limits?

The great majority of North Carolina congressmen, when in the house, go upon theory "that little folks should be seen and not heard."

The Winston Republican this week couches a lance in defense of Mr. Marion Butler. Which is a case of Don Quixote defending instead of attacking a wind mill.

We hope Gov. Pingree will not change from a potato farmer to a bloated capitalist and so, from the point of view of the reformer and Dr. Johnston, piece out his good intentions with his asphalt.

The Freshmen and Sophmore classes of Cornell University have been bombarding each other with o'er ripe eggs. We call attention of the Cracker legislature to this bloodless substitute for football.

There was something exceedingly smooth and oily in the way our esteemed fellow townsmen, Thomas Settle, dropped that sentence to the Washington Post about the failure of the Piedmont section to get its share of patronage.

The campers on that patch of country known as New Jersey are anxious to have changes made in the methods of electing State Senators. It is not stated whether they wish to adopt permanently the method of Mr. Gas Addicks, of Delaware.

General Blanco announces a brilliant victory over the insurgents. He has probably been reading with covetousness the account of Weyler's enthusiastic reception. But then Weyler was a creative genius while Blanco is only a poor imitator.

The paper of Mr. Marion Butler, who is this week in Washington City, devotes its entire editorial page to more affidavits and the trenchant editorials of that pure patriot and uprooter of conspiracies are crowded clear over onto the third page and some of them into the middle of next week.

An exchange gravely announces that Dunstable, England, has a two-legged shepherd dog that still manages to attend to its duties. We can beat that hollow on this side of the ditch. We have plenty of two-legged dogs who insist on attending to the business of other folks.

There is something rather pathetic in the helplessness of big, hulking China before a few German warships and a couple hundred marines. With Germany's population scores of times over, and the Chinese are not cowards, she is driven to the expedient of bribing Germany to abandon a captured seaport. Japan would have made mince meat of those marines and scrap iron of the cruisers long ago, while poor old China, with raw material for brilliant battles and certain victories, must purchase peace. It is the inevitable penalty of unreadiness.

The Baltimore Sun devotes a column to the discussion of the "Most popular American and English hymn." We can't speak for England but in this country it is unquestionably a "Miserere."

The Honorable Jerry Simpson, of Kansas, has a bicycle with a solid silver handle bar. The Honorable Jerry is possibly attempting by present magnificence to atone for the stigma of his sockless past.

The bill providing for reforms in the Georgia convict system failed in the house of representatives, at Atlanta, for want of a constitutional majority.

The banking and currency committee of the house has invited Secretary Gage to prepare a bill embodying his recommendations for financial legislation.

TWO LOCOMOTIVES AND A NEGRO

Remarkable Experience of a Colored Man.

A Pittsburg dispatch to the Philadelphia Press says: Charles Retting, a colored man, had a remarkable experience near Greensburg last night. He was struck by two trains in succession, and to the hardness of his head and his luck is due the fact that Retting remained alive.

He was walking on the Pennsylvania Railroax track, near Greensburg, when two freight trains approached from opposite directions. Retting decided to remain between the tracks, supposing there would be enough room. As the trains approached Retting began to feel uneasy, and attempted to cross in front of the eastbound train. The pilot of the engine caught him on the head with such force that he was thrown in the air directly in front of the westbound train. Before he had time to alight the other locomotive struck him and threw him back twenty feet in the air.

He fell between the two trains, and for the next second or two was bounced from one train to the other like an animated football. The crews of both trains witnessed the accident, and as soon as they could stop, hurried back to pick up the pieces. To their surprise, however, they found Retting between the tracks endeavoring to sit up. He was perfectly conscious, but naturally somewhat bewildered. Examination showed that his head and face were badly cut and that his right arm was broken. Outside of these injuries he seemed none the worse for his rough handling, and the doctors at the Greensburg Hospital say he will recover.

A BACHELOR'S QUARTERS.

Nothing Homelike About Them, According to the Married Man's Story.

They hadn't met since the old college days, ten years before, and of ocurse the benedict insisted that the bachelor should come home to dinner with him.

"Married the year after I left college," he said, "and I have the nicest little home and the finest lot of youngsters that you ever saw. I want you to come out and see how nicely I'm fixed. I tell you a man doesn't know what life is until he's married."

"No?"

"Well, I should say not."

And so it happened that the bachelor went with the benedict and met the latter's wife and played with his children and made himself generally useful and popular until they were all seated at the dinner table.

It was over the coffee and cigars, after the benedict's wife had left the table, that the benedict finally suggested:

"Pretty comfortably fixed, ain't I, old man? Children, why don't you go into the other room?"

"Very nicely, indeed," answered the bachelor, replying to the first question and ignoring the second.

"Oh, there's nothing like home life," went on the benedict. "Willie, stop trying to climb on Mr. Brown's knee. He wants to smoke. Do you know, old man, I laugh when I think of my foolish idea that I knew in those old days what happiness was. Why, a man doesn't begin to live until— Maggie, put that nutpick back on the table. You'll jab it in your eye the first thing you know. Yes, sir. I actually have to laugh when I think of it. Our idea of contentment in those days was to get a pipe and a book and a bottle of Scotch and lock the door and lie down and— Would you mind moving your coffee cup a little farther back on the table, old man? Tommie's trying to reach it, and my wife would raise my scalp if I should let him break one of her very best cups. That's it. Thank you. As I was saying, we didn't know what ease and contentment was in those days. No single man does. A man has to have a big armchair and his slippers all ready for him and everything sort of restful and quiet before— Now, don't cry, Mabel. If you didn't want to get hurt, why did you grab the end of my cigar? Tommie, take her in to her mother. There, Willie, I told you you'd stick that nutpick into your hand if you didn't look out. Run into the other room and ask your mother to put a bandage on it. Let's see, where was I, old man? Oh, yes, I remember now. I was about to say that there's nothing homelike about a bachelor's quarters"—

"No," interrupted the bachelor, with considerable emphasis, "there isn't."

The benedict couldn't quite see the reason for such an emphatic assertion, but he wisely changed the subject, just the same.—Chicago Post.

Feeding a Baby Elephant.

In St. Nicholas F. Fitz Roy Dixon tells of a baby elephant that was captured by friends of his in Ceylon, after the death of its mother. Mr. Dixon says:

When Sidney was first brought over, virtually in order that she might be fed, the question naturally arose as to how she would take her nourishment. Of course the proper way for an adult elephant to take in water is by means of the trunk, which is furnished with two tubes running its whole length. But when a bowl of milk was placed before the baby elephant she did not know what to do with it. She dipped the tip of her trunk into it, and the lookers on thought that there would be no difficulty about her drinking at all, since she recognized the scent of the nourishment she had been accustomed to. But she was quite at a loss and set up a roar which seemed quite natural under the circumstances. Then some one suggested pouring it down her throat from a bottle, and this was accordingly tried, and after one or two ineffectual attempts she understood.

She was half starved when this was done, for she had had nothing to eat since the death of her mother, and her delight at being fed was most amusing. The only trouble was that it was difficult to satisfy her, and it was feared that the change of diet would disagree with her, but fortunately it had no ill effect.

Oranges.

The very sweetest orange and richest is the black or rusty coated fruit. Pick out the dingiest oranges in the box, and you will get the best. Another way to choose oranges is by weight. The heaviest are the best, because they have the thinnest skin and more weight of juice. Thick skinned oranges are apt to be dry. They either weigh less because of having so much skin or because of the poverty of the juice in these particular specimens. A slight freezing on the tree causes this condition in otherwise fine fruit. The "kid glove" oranges are the two varieties of small fruit grown in Florida from stocks respectively brought from China and from Tangier. They are called mandarin and tangerine. They may be eaten without soiling a kid glove, because the skin is loose and the little "gores," or pockets of juice, come apart very cleanly and without breaking. All the above applies to Florida oranges. The Jamaica and Havana oranges are much paler yellow, and their juice is usually of more acid quality than the home grown oranges.

The Rascal Won.

"What's the price of these gloves?" she asked.

"A dollar and seventy-five cents," said the clerk; "but I'm afraid we haven't any small enough for you. We can order an extra small size, however."

"Oh, these will do. I'll take three pairs."—Chicago News.

Two Useful Items.

Half a lemon makes a very good substitute for a bar of toilet soap, and an orange, cut in half and rubbed on a sooty kettle, makes very good shoe-blacking, which takes a fine polish.

Land Sale

By virtue of a mortgage deed executed by John Bethel and wife Fannie Bethel, on the 28th day of October, 1896, to J. W. Kerr, (since dead) and in consequence of a failure to pay the debt secured in said mortgage, I will sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at the court house door in Greensboro, N. C., on Saturday, December 4th, 1897, the lands described in said mortgage, butted and bounded as follows:

Beginning on northeast corner of street on Main street leading to Greensboro, thence north 60 degrees east along westerly side of said street 10 1-3 poles, thence north 87 degrees west 14 1-2 poles, thence south 30 degrees west 10 1-6 poles to north side of said street, thence 87 degrees east with said street 14 poles to the beginning, containing one acre, more or less. There is reserved from this sale the lot out of this boundary heretofore sold to Frank Fields.

The above mortgage is recorded in book 102, page 707, in the office of the register of deeds, Nov. 4, 1897.

LAURA KERR, Executrix of J. W. Kerr, deceased.

OUR OWN.

If I had known in the morning
How wearily all the day
The words unkind would trouble my mind
That I said when you went away.
I had been more careful, darling,
Nor given you needless pain,
But we vex our own with look and tone
We may never take back again.

For, though in the quiet evening
You may give me the kiss of peace,
Yet it well might be that never for me
The pain of the heart should cease!
How many go forth at morning
Who never come home at night!
And hearts have broken for harsh words spoken
That sorrow can ne'er set right.

We have careful thought for the stranger
And smiles for the some time guest,
But oft for our own the bitter tone,
Though we love our own the best.
Ah, lips with the curve impatient,
Ah, brow with the shade of scorn,
'Twere a cruel fate were the night too late
To undo the work of the morn!

—Margaret E. Sangster.

SAWING UP A LOG.

How Planks Are Cut Into Shape In a Great Western Sawmill.

W. S. Harwood contributes "The Story of a Pine Board" to St. Nicholas. After telling of the cutting down of the tree and its progress from the forest to the mill Mr. Harwood says:

Up from the yellowish brown depths of the slow moving river flowing so steadily on its way to the sea comes a huge, dark brown thing with a shining, dripping coat. It is our log, entering upon its last stage. It passes at once up a long incline called the "slit"—a trench of wood about eight inches deep and two feet wide at the top, so hollowed out that the largest log will lie in it securely as it is being drawn up the incline by the stout chains with which the slit is equipped. Projecting pieces of steel on this chain serve to keep the log steady, its great weight, causing it to sink upon these pieces of steel, which are like sharp teeth. A workman, standing at the side of the slit, by means of a lever throws up two powerful steel pointed arms, which lift the logs out of the slit and throw them upon tables, from which they are rolled down to the carriage which leads to the saws. When the log reaches the carriage, it is thrown upon the framework by the "nigger"—a long, ratcheted timber or piece of steel. This framework is like a section of an ordinary flat car running on a regular railroad track. Two men stand on the moving carriage and at a signal from the head sawyer, who directs the cutting of the log, regulate the thickness of the plank or board by the levers of the carriage.

When the log has been adjusted, it rapidly advances to the saw, and in a very few seconds its water soaked sides have been trimmed by the sharp teeth. The carriage flies back to the starting place with the swiftness of the wind, and it is enough to make one shudder to see it go. You expect every instant that one of the men will be thrown off and terribly injured. They learn to balance themselves, however, though there are frequent accidents. One instant of inattention on the part of the head sawyer, who regulates the speed of the carriage by his lever, would send the carriage flying back to the end of the mill with tremendous force and probably kill both of the men. One of the men on the carriage, called the "setter," fixes the width of the board to be sawed on signal from the head sawyer; the other man is the second sawyer.

As I stood one day in one of these mills, watching the men flying forth and back on the narrow carriage, and almost expecting that one or both of them would be thrown off in the swiftness of their flight, I took out my watch and timed them, and I found that they traveled on an average on this little railroad not more than 20 feet long, 168,000 feet a day, or about 31 miles.

On Ships' Beds.

The Arundel Castle is the finest boat I have seen in these seas. She is thoroughly modern, and that statement covers a great deal of ground. She has the usual defect, the common defect, the universal defect, the defect that has never been missing from any ship that ever sailed—she has imperfect beds. Many ships have good beds, but no ship has very good ones. In the matter of beds all ships have been badly edited, ignorantly edited, from the beginning. The selection of the beds is given to some hearty, strong backed, self made man, when it ought to be given to a frail woman accustomed from girlhood to backaches and insomnia. Nothing is so rare on either side of the ocean as a perfect bed; nothing is so difficult to make. Some of the hotels on both sides provide it, but no ship ever does or ever did. In Noah's ark the beds were simply scandalous. Noah set the fashion, and it will endure in one degree of modification or another until the next flood. —"Following the Equator," by Mark Twain, in McClure's.

His Bluff.

When the young man called to ask for the old man's daughter, the latter naturally thought it was necessary to put up a good bluff, that being the usual method of procedure. Consequently he looked solemn, coughed once or twice as a sort of preliminary, communed with himself a minute or two, coughed again and asked:

"Can you support her in the style to which she has been accustomed?"

"If I couldn't," returned the young man promptly, "I ought to be ashamed of myself."

The old man's bluff was called. —Chicago Post.

Smoking in Germany is not a pastime. It is an art, and an art that has grouped about it a respectable number of industries. Every smoker carries a cigar case, a cigar clipper, matchbox and usually a little leather box for the cigar tips. The tips are collected by a society organized for the purpose in each province and are sold to the manufacturer for the benefit of charitable institutions.

KILLED BY INSECT BITES.

Fruit Dealers in St. Louis the Victims of the Tarantula and Scorpion.

St. Louis, Dec. 9—Within two weeks three men have died here from the effects of tarantula and scorpion bites. Another was forced to have his arm amputated in order to escape death from one of these bites. All the victims are Sicilians. They were in the fruit business, and it is among the fruit houses on North Third street that the deadly insects which killed them are found. Bananas and other tropical fruits shipped here are picked in the winter, and among them lurk the insects, which are torpified by cold weather. In the steam rooms of local fruit houses where the fruits are hung to ripen these insects are revived by the warmth and they frequently attack the men at work in the establishments.

Pension Warrants Mailed.

Auditory Ayer yesterday mailed the pension warrants for the year, which are awaited with the greatest interest by the hundreds of veterans throughout the State. The Auditor had to send these warrants to the Register of Deeds in every county in North Carolina. The Register of Deeds then gives them out to the pensioners.

The Auditor says this has been an immense amount of work, and in future he intends to begin work on them during the summer while there is not such a rush of business in his office. He is now at work on his annual report, and he hoped to get his document out by the middle of January.

The mailing of the pension warrants cost the State about $20. The package to each Register of Deeds had to be registered and sent by mail.—Post.

Water Famine in Kansas.

Topeka, Kan. Dec. 9—Kansas is suffering from a water famine. Many towns are without water. The prolonged drought has become a serious matter. Streams from which the towns and cities get their supply are dry and the wells which afforded the people water for domestic purposes have failed.

In a dozen of the larger towns the railroads are hauling water and depositing it in tubs for the use of the people.

Mr. Spreckels Buys 12,000 Acres.

San Francisco, Dec. 9—Claus Spreckles has just purchased 12,000 acres of the San Lorenzo ranch, in Monterey county, three-quarters of which is well adapted to the culture of the sugar beets. Spreckels paid $275,000 for the land, which is near the railroad and thus in direct communication with his new beet sugar refinery at Salinas, which when completed will be the largest in the United States though a few refineries in Germany are larger.

Texas City Sold in Bulk.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 9—The town of Texas City, which was started about three years ago as a great coast resort and commercial metropolis by a syndicate of capitalists, was sold in bulk yesterday at public auction for $90,000. J. L. Greatsinger of Duluth, Minn., was the purchaser. The city contains a fine hotel, several large store buildings, and some fine residences, built for citizens who never came.

A Klondike Near Clayton, N. Y.

Watertown. N. Y., Dec. 9—A veritable Klondike has been discovered at Prospect Heights, near Clayton. B. M. Hill, Superintendent of the United States Fish Hatchery at the place first found an accumulation of glistening granules in the bottom of a fish tank, which, when tested, were found to be pure gold. Further investigation proved the sandy soil in the vicinity of the near-by springs to be rich in the same quality of the precious metal which assayed $18 an ounce, $6 an ounce more than Klondike gold. Mr. Hill has filed claim papers covering the mineral wealth of twenty-four acres of land near the Heights, and will soon commence sluice mining to determine whether the gold abounds in paying quantities.

This is to Certify that a few years since, while living in a malarial district, I suffered dreadfully with chills, which it seemed impossible to break. A friend urged me to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I did so, and by the use of a few bottles they were entirely broken broken, and I have not been troubled with them since. I also found it an excellent nervine.

The first two car loads of granite has been received for curbing on Summit avenue.

Mrs. J. M. Love, who has been seriously ill for some weeks, is about well, we are pleased to learn.

Miss Ida Tomlinson, of Archdale, was in the city today and accompanied her mother Mrs. Hollowell, home to Goldsboro.

Mrs. N. A. Hanner, who has been very sick for some time at her home on McCulloch street is reported to be much improved.

So much sickness among children every Christmas is often caused by the impure and stale candy given them by their parents, says Andrews' ad.

Mr. N. J. O'Brien, accompanied by his mother and sister, left last night for Philadelphia to visit George O'Brien who is there under the care of a physician.

A nice lunch at Grady's Central Cafe, is the thing after an evening's entertainment. Next door to Ward's drug store. See his ad on first page.

Rock is being hauled on Summit avenue at the junction with Church street. The houses of A. T. Lyon on the avenue are also going up rapidly.

We are glad to hear that the survey of the East Market street crossing is under way. When completed the bridge will be over twelve feet high from the street and fifty feet wide. This will be a great improvement.

Attorney R. H. Hayes, of Pittsboro, is in the city to argue a matter at chambers before Judge Adams. Col. W. E. Murchison, of Jonesboro, came up on the C. F. & Y. V. railway this afternoon to argue the opposite side of the matter.

James Lovell, baggage master on the northbound local reaching this city at 9:52 p. m., had his left hand badly mashed here last night while handling heavy baggage. He stopped off here for about an hour to have his hand dressed and left on the vestibule.

The National Bank of High Point, has recently added a steel burglar proof safe and fire proof vault. This is an excellent bank and has made a splendid record during its eleven year business career and the addition of the new vault and safe affords increased security to depositors and patrons of the bank.

The photographs which were made especially for The Telegram showing public road improvement in this county, and which have been on exhibition in the Piedmont Bank and Holton's drug store, are now to be seen in the window of the National Bank of High Point. The friends and those interested in public road improvement are invited to call and look at these views.

Dr. Battle, of this city, has sent a set of The Telegram's public road photographs to Wadesboro to be examined by the authorities there. It is a source of pleasure to note the increasing interest in the matter of good roads in various sections of North Carolina. The Telegram would urge the necessity and importance of increased efforts along this line. It is the biggest thing in sight in the way of material advancement for North Carolina. "It's a good thing, push it along."

They Ran For It.

A pair of mules and a load of lumber created a stir on South Elm at noon. The wagon was loaded with laths and driving overthe cobblestones made them rattle. The mules raced down East Washington, scattering the lumber on the street but the colored driver stuck to them pluckily and finally stopped them before any damage was done.

Public Library Plans.

The sub-committee appointed to draft plans for the organization of a public library company met and drafted them last night. They will be submitted to the general committee this evening. So soon as approved they will be made public and active work will begin. There is little doubt that the move will be liberally encouraged by the city's reading public.

LET'S HAVE IT.

Here is a Chance Now For a Good Day's Sport.

There is a movement on foot to have a day of good racing at the driving park on the 23rd of this month. A number of gentlemen interested in this movement will canvass the town tomorrow and see what support will be given them in the effort.

If they meet with the encouragement they hope for and deserve there will be a day of fine sport. The following horses are expected to enter the races: Clipper, of Reidsville; Gallatin, of Charlotte; Calla Lily, owned by J. F. Jordan, and Henry, owned by Mr. Arrasmith, of Greensboro, besides other horses from Burlington, Charlotte and Reidsville.

Messrs. Arrasmith and Jordan have had their horses on the Southern circuit and with the friends of fine horseflesh should receive the encouragement they merit. There is no reason why Greensboro should not become the center of turf matters in North Carolina. It has good men, good stock and a good track.

In this connection we would say that The Telegram heartily advocates having a Guilford county fair and hopes that some steps will be taken in that direction at the proper time. We would respectfully suggest the name of Mr. J. Van Lindley, of Pomona, as the president. This will do talk and think about.
